MUST PAY DUTIES.

Uncle Sam Will Enforce the Monroe Doctrine.

But San Domingo Must Respond to Demands of European Countries for Duties.

OTHER NATIONAL ITEMS.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28, 1904.

The United States will probably take full charge of the Republic of San Domingo in the not distant future. This step will be taken, not with a view to acquiring possession of the insolvent republic but with the purpose of establishing it on a sound financial and political footing, as was done with Cuba. This policy is the inevitable concomitant of the Monroe Doctrine on which all American Presidents in recent years have so strongly insisted. Elihu Root, ex-Secretary of War, in a speech made in New York recently, illustrated the incompatibility of declaring that no European power should exercise force on this continent to collect just debts, unless this country was itself prepared to compel the payment of such debts. Investigation at the State Department, prompted by Mr. Root's declaration, and reveals the fact that the United States is now preparing to take entire charge of the ports of San Domingo, collect the customs, devote them to the payment of European and American creditors and will probably take temporary control of the political organization of the country with a view to establishing it on a basis which will render further interference by this country unnecessary. To this end two ports have already been seized, two more soon will be and the remaining two ports of entry will doubtless be taken possession of a little later, their receipts having been already pledged by the San Domingan government to its European creditors.

In this connection it should be authoritatively stated that the United States has no intention of taking permanent possession of San Domingo. In fact, it would not accept the Republic as a gift, although an agreement may be reached whereby the United States will acquire a coaling station on Samana Bay. The necessity of a coaling station at this point, which commands the Windward Passage to the Caribbean Sea, was appreciated as long ago as during President Grant's administration, and possession of Porto Rico and the Panama Canal strip make its acquisition doubly important. At present San Domingo is merely "lamed" by a military oligarchy which saps the vitality of the nation, maintaining a numerous army in idleness and robbing the unfortunate producer at every turn. The military forces are moreover described by a native San Domingan as "an army of Colonels with almost no privates," and they contribute to, rather than prevent, the numerous revolutions which have been the curse of the so-called republic.

Along about the latter part of February a fleet of American warships will make their appearance off the coast of Venezuela and their commander will ask some very pertinent questions and perhaps seize certain Venezuelan ports, unless President Castro shall perceive the error of his way in the meantime. The Venezuelan government has seized the entire property of the New York and Bermudez Asphalt Company after a resemblance of adjudication by a court selected for the purpose by Castro himself and the explanation which Mr. Castro has forwarded to the State Department of his reasons for expelling A. F. Jurett, an American editor of Caracas, has been pronounced most unsatisfactory and President Castro has been so advised. Sixty days will be given to Mr. Castro to undo the injustice he has perpetrated, at the expiration of which time he will, in the absence of satisfactory action, be dealt with as the occasion demands. It has long been the pleasing custom of the Venezuelan President to severely discipline those members of any court which rendered a decision against the government and in the case of the Asphalt Company he calmly dissolved two courts and constituted a new "Supreme Court" consisting of those judges whose opinions had accorded with his wishes. In brief, he has been ruling Venezuela as a tyrant and has broken faith with the United States which protected Venezuela from the vengeance of Great Britain and Germany and he must now be summarily dealt with by this country, or foreign powers must be allowed to interfere.

The President is seeking to impress on callers at the White House the importance he attaches to Commissioner Garfield's recommendation that corporations transacting an interstate business be required to procure federal licenses. Of course such licenses could be procured only on conditions as might be prescribed by Congress and the President and his Commissioner of Corporations believe that this method affords the clue to the desired control of the trusts. As in the case of his recommendation that the Interstate Commerce Commission be granted the power to fix railroad rates "until an endless" reversed by the court of review, the President is certain to meet with opposition in Congress and there is no likelihood that any such legislation will be enacted at the present session of Congress, but the vigorous manner in which the President has tackled the problem of trust control seems certain to result in eventually placing on the statutes legislation which will prove efficacious in remedying such evils as may exist. There is, of course, a tendency on the part of Congress to make haste slowly with new propositions but it seems certain that the leaders will become imbued with at least a portion of the President's energy and his sincerity as shown in his application to a solution of this problem.

TEN YEARS IN PEN

For Estill Darrell for His Brutal Crime of Criminal Assault.

Estill Darrell will serve ten years in the State penitentiary for criminal assault upon and sexual intercourse with his niece, Lillie Thomas Darrell-Thornberry Sparks. For the second time he was convicted of the crime in the Davies Circuit Court last Saturday by a jury and his punishment fixed at imprisonment for that term. Bitter and hard-fought has been the effort to save Darrell from the penitentiary. The crime of which he is convicted is, under the law, punishable by imprisonment in any term up to twenty years, or death. In the instance of his first trial, at the April term of court, 1904, he was convicted and the jury fixed his punishment at the limit, except death, and he was sentenced to serve twenty years at hard labor.

An appeal to the higher court followed where a reversal was secured on several points and the case remanded for another hearing. One of these was upon the introduction of certain evidence, and the others upon the conduct of the case by the prosecuting attorneys.

TAFFY.

Dec. 21.—It has been requested that I write to your paper in the interest of the Farmers Union if you will allow me space.

A tobacco buyer came through last week and offered 7 and 2 for Burley tobacco and nobody sold. This week two buyers came along and only two crops were sold. One sold for 8, 8 and 2 and the other for 8½, 8½ and 2½. Look out! The price is coming. Stand firm, for I believe in ten or twelve days we will get our prices, for the tobacco men are having farmers to go out and persuade farmers who don't belong to the union to sell at low prices. Keep your eye on those men.

SHOT TO DEATH.

Anthony Maiden Shoots and Kills Rice Renfrow.

Jake Stewart's Arm Shot Off—Trouble Arose Over Trival Affair.

Anthony Maiden, of White Run, a little town on the I. C. R. R. in the eastern part of the county, shot and killed Rice Renfrow and seriously wounded Jake Stewart at that place last Saturday late in the afternoon.

There are conflicting reports as to who was the aggressor in the difficulty which had such a tragic termination, but it is reported that Stewart, the man who had his right arm shot off and the only eye witness to the whole affair, says that Renfrow was attempting to draw his revolver from his pocket, when Maiden noticed him in the act and fired.

The parties, with numerous others, were at White Run, and the crowd had been engaged in target shooting, the prizes being chickens.

The origin of the trouble dates back several weeks, when Maiden and Renfrow had trouble over some hogs, when some of Maiden's hogs were killed by Renfrow in his (Renfrow's) cornfield. At that time they had a sharp difficulty, but nothing more than harsh talk passed between them. They had not spoken to each since.

At the time of the killing, Maiden, Renfrow and others were leaving Jno. Alford's store to try their luck at target shooting, when some one asked Maiden where he was going. He replied that he was going to shoot for a chicken. Renfrow responded that if Maiden got a chicken he would get two, and went after his revolver, which was in his right hand pants pocket. Maiden saw what he was doing, and fired one shot, which took effect in Jake Stewart's right arm. He fired again, and it took effect in Renfrow's stomach, and he died in a few minutes.

Maiden came to Hartford Tuesday and surrendered, and is now in jail awaiting his examining trial, which is set for to day.

The dead man was thirty-nine years of age, and leaves a wife and several children. Stewart also has a family.

Maiden's reputation is not very good. About twenty years ago he was in jail on a charge of kinking, housebreaking and shooting and wounding. The case was in the local courts for about ten years. He was found guilty of one of the charges and sentenced to the penitentiary, but the Court of Appeals reversed the decision. Maiden is sixty-five years of age.

STOP THAT COUGH!

Colds Lead to Catarrh--Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

A Beautiful Girl's Experience

MISS ALMA LILLIA.

Miss Alma Lillia, 506 18th St., Rock Island, Ill., says:

"I am a firm friend to Peruna, for it cured me in two days of a cough which had been annoying me for three weeks, and which had developed a serious catarrhal affection of the throat and lungs."

"I had a number of colds during the year, and each left me with a little more catarrh; then this bad cough was the worst. I took cough medicines until I sickened at the sight of them. But Peruna cured me up in such quick time that I am its firm friend. Four weeks' constant use of it got the catarrh entirely out of my system."

"It deserves all the praise bestowed upon it."—Alma Lillia.

treatment that is ineffectual, and the cold continues.

Then they catch another cold and begin to cough. Then they take cough syrups, but they do no good.

By and by they get tired of taking medicine and give up in despair.

Their cold continues and their cough grows worse. Then they apply to a doctor, only to discover that they are in the first stages of consumption.

Miss Lillia, of Illinois, started out exactly in this way. Fortunately, she took a course of Peruna before it was too late. She had caught several colds, then a cough developed. She took all sorts of cough medicines, until, as she puts it, "I sickened at the sight of them." In four weeks Peruna had cured her of her catarrh and her system was entirely rid of it.

This is what Peruna is doing all the while. Not a day, and probably not an hour, passes but some one has a similar experience with Peruna.

The first step toward consumption is catching cold. The next step is a failure to cure it promptly. The third step is the development of catarrh, which gradually becomes chronic. The fourth step, the catarrh begins to spread from the head to the throat. The fifth step, the catarrh spreads to the bronchial tubes and lungs. It then becomes consumption in its first stage.

At any time during the progress of the catarrh, from the first onset of the cold to its final settlement in the lungs, Peruna can be relied upon to stop the disease. It cures entirely. Even after consumption has become thoroughly developed, many cases have found in Peruna a permanent cure. After they have been given up by physicians to die of consumption Peruna has cured them.

We have hundreds of testimonials that declare these facts in the most enthusiastic language.

U. S. Senator John M. Thurston, from Nebraska, writes the following letter from Washington, D. C., under date of April 6, 1901:

"I have used Peruna at various times during the past year or two with most satisfactory results."

"It entirely relieved me from an irritating cough, the result of excessive effort in the Presidential campaign, and I am a firm believer in its efficacy in any such trouble."—Jno. M. Thurston.

To take quieting medicines to stop a cough is absurd and harmful. The only way to stop a cough permanently and without doing more injury than good is to cure the catarrh, which is exactly what Peruna does. It cures the catarrh of the bronchial tubes and the cough ceases.

At the slightest appearance of a cough a bottle of Peruna should be taken according to directions. One bottle in the beginning will do more than a half dozen bottles after the catarrh has fastened itself on the lungs.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

ANCIENT RUINS UNCOVERED

By Army of Archaeologists in Asia and Egypt.

Greatness of The Queen of Sheba was no
Myth.

By degrees the historical truth of the bible narrative is being confirmed by an army of archaeologists who are working in Asia Minor and Egypt, says a New York special to the St. Louis Republic. The great empires of the Mediterranean are being reconstructed by savans such as Messrs. Hogarth and Evans with the most satisfactory results; and now R. N. Hall, following in the footsteps of Theodore Bent, is bringing to light proofs of the Empire of Sheba, in South Arabia, which had colonies and outposts extending into Rhodesia. The greatness of the famous queen of Sheba, who visited Solomon, is now shown to be no myth, and Mr. Hall was able to demonstrate to the members of the Royal United Service Institute in London recently that the older portions of the Zimbabwe ruins in Rhodesia represents the monument of a colony of this ancient world power.

It was Sheba that provided the world with the Phoenician alphabet, the parent of all our European systems, and provided the chief supply of gold to the Mediterranean. Sheba was the dominant power over East Africa, and so remained until the Christian era was well started. In 35 A. D. King Kharabil was in possession of the whole of this territory. The seat of government was in Southern Arabia, and the extensive Rhodesian gold workings out in Rider Haggard's novel "King Solomon's Mines" represent the activity of a colony sent south to win gold.

Mr. Bent, who discovered in 1901 the phallic character of these ancient temples at Great Zimbabwe, saw these ruins while they were still buried, but Mr. Hall is more fortunate, for during the eight years which he has given to unraveling the mystery of Rhodesian gold workings large portions of the temples have been cleared of the debris which concealed the original walls.

These ruins were known to the early Portuguese in 1510, the Arab gold, ivory and slave traders first mentioning them, says a writer in the Illustrated London News. After that period the ruins were lost sight of until 1868, when Adam Renders, an elephant hunter, rediscovered them, and later information came to be circulated in England; but the descriptions given were meager, owing to the fact that the ancient city had, in the course of centuries, become buried in the soil.

In 1891 Mr. Bent visited Zimbabwe and later published a work on "The Ruined Cities of Mashonaland." Mr. Hall, after his work at Zimbabwe, has caused a better description to be prepared, and while confirming Mr. Bent's main conclusions in several respects he carried the discussion as to the origin of the structures considerably further.

The ruins are composed of three groups of temples and forts—the Elliptical Temple, the Valley of Ruins and the Acropolis ruins. The area covered is almost two miles and a half in another direction, and examinations show that probably they extended much further.

The Elliptical temple is a massive structure of excellent masonry, fashioned of small granite blocks. The oldest portion has walls fifteen feet wide at the base and eight feet wide at the summit, the walls notwithstanding serious dilapidations, being 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 feet in height. The slope of the faces leads to the building a decidedly eastern appearance. The entrances are narrow and are defended by buttresses. The temple contains a large number of passages, all narrow and smooth. The interior is divided off by low walls of courtyards. At the west end of the interior stand a massive column lower, thirty-one feet in height and 3 1/2 feet in diameter. This column is the evidence of the nature and fertility worship of the ancient world.

When portions of the interior of the temple have been cleared of soil and the foundations of the walls are exposed, the ruins are found to be of a nature and fertility worship of the ancient world.

are found gold ornaments of excellent design and make, also gold plates, gold stacks of microscopic size, gold crucifixes still containing gold, gold wire and gold beads. In fact, gold can be picked up as easily as nails in a carpenter's workshop.

Other articles of prehistoric character found by Mr. Hall were soapstone bowls carved with animals and geometric patterns, are large birds carved in soapstone on summits of beams five feet long. Ten of the birds have been discovered at Zimbabwe. These figures are believed to prove the worship of Almaquah (Ashtaroth of the scripture), and Venus of the Romans and Aphrodite of the Greeks, one of the principal deities of the nature and fertility worship common to all Semitic nations.

The exterior face of the temple which fronts the east, bears a mural decoration of chevron pattern, one of the oldest of ancient forms of decoration expressive of the idea of fertility. It is found on the earthenware of the earliest ascertained dynasties of Egypt, about 6,000 B. C., and on Phoenician coins, where it is used to represent water. This pattern extends from southeast to northwest, and faces to rising of the sun at the winter and summer solstices.

On the wall above the pattern was a line of tall monoliths of granite and slate, Mr. Hall discovered that this length of wall once carried small towers and beautifully carved soapstone monoliths.

This portion of the wall, so decorated toward the east, is believed to be connected with the geometrical orientation of the temple to fix seasons and periods of the year.

The system of orientation of ancient temples was commonly adopted in Asia, Arabia, Babylon, Phoenicia and Egypt. It is by the orientation of the temple that the approximate dates of its construction can be ascertained. The Zimbabwe temple is believed to date back 1,200 B. C.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Theodor's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is the best medicine I take." MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Theodor's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Theodor's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites edema, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Theodor's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Theodor's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to equal it." WILLIAM COFFMAN, March 18, 1904.

fiently. Judge Swayne appears not to be an admirable judge. He has done something he ought not to have done; he has done some right things in an offensive way. He has lacked that respect for his position which our teachers and preachers are always inculcating. Yet he cannot be removed except by impeachment. He is finally charged with high crimes and misdemeanor, the chief specification being that in charging $10 a day for his expenses he only expended $3.

The other charges are that he has been guilty of oppression in imprisoning persons upon false charges of contempt of court and that his actions have been corrupt in bankruptcy cases; that he has not been impartial; that he appointed a friend as United States Commissioner; that he is a non-resident, and that he made a junketing trip on a railway which is under his judicial control, the whole expense being paid by the receiver, who was appointed by himself, all of which is denied, though the per diem business is not disputed.

These are reasonable grounds for the removal of executive officers, but when a judge is guilty of them he must be formally indicted, tried, and if convicted, incapable of holding any office hereafter. There have been heretofore seven impeachments and only two convictions. The list is as follows:

1798—William Blount, United States Senator for Tennessee, charged with inciting Indian troubles along the lower Mississippi, acquitted.

1803—Jno. Pickens, United States District Judge for New Hampshire charged with drunkenness and profligacy on the bench and making unlawful decisions, convicted.

1805—Samuel Chase, Justice of the United States Supreme Court, accused of misconduct in political trials, acquitted.

1830—Jas. H. Peck, United States District Judge for Missouri, charged with misconduct, acquitted.

1862—West H. Humphries, United States District Judge for Tennessee, charged with organizing rebellion, convicted.

1866—Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, charged with violating laws of Congress, acquitted.

1876—William W. Belknap, Secretary of War, charged with accepting a bribe, acquitted on a technicality.

It is plain that the trial court is somewhat favorably disposed to the accused and inclined to pass over offenses which if committed by executive officers would lead probably to "removal for cause," or else a reprimand and an injunction not to do it again.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonville, Va., serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefitted. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by Z. THEIR TURN TO RUN.

Experience of Two Bear Hunters in the Mountains of Oregon.

A bear hunt which terminated in a manner at once disappointing and surprising, is described by the Portland, Oregonian. It occurred in the mountains of Oregon, whither two gentlemen had taken themselves for a vacation trip.

Several days were spent in trout fishing. Then one of the men expressed a strong desire for a day's shooting for larger game. They set out the next morning bright and early, and after hours of fruitless tramping were about returning to camp, when suddenly they saw straight before them a brown bear sitting on his haunches, under a blueberry bush, and gorging himself with the berries.

Both hunters fired, and the bear, with an ugly growl, disappeared. The men hastened after him, but were unable to overtake him. For half an hour or more they followed the trail. Then all at once they came to a clearing. In the clearing was a cabin, and on the porch of the cabin sat the brown bear with one of his forelegs in a sling.

The hunters were greatly taken aback, as may well be supposed, but were still more surprised when they saw a man hastening toward them with a gun. They turned and ran the men after them. They got away in safety, and learned afterward that the bear was a family pet, the owner of which was naturally angry at finding it ill-treated.

Care of the Bath Room.

Nothing is so hard to keep in perfect order as the bath room, and nothing requires more constant attention.

Pipes are the most important part. If anything is wrong with them the whole family is in danger, for half the diseases contracted in winter, the time when people are more or less closely housed, may be traced to bad pipes and drainage.

Bathtub and basins should be kept immaculate, not just ordinarily clean, as a servant usually leaves them; they should be cleaned and cleaned with good soap and a brush, and then given a final cleaning with the woolen cloth good house keepers always keep ready for just such work. For woolen cloths are the only things that will surely take away that little dark ring that forms, no matter how little you are.

Glass or porcelain or nickel-plated fixtures come for almost every possible article a bath-room needs. Towel racks of glass are considered more sanitary and cleaner looking than if of any other material. Glass shelves—small, thick sheets of glass supported by nickel clamps—are used. Nickel soap cups and sponge cups come to slip over the side of a bath-

THEIR PROPER TREATMENT AND CURE.

Commonly, the first symptom of a "cold" is a chilly feeling, accompanied by sneezing, or a tickling in the throat. The most frequent of external causes are draughts, wet or cold feet, or going from hot rooms suddenly into cold ones. More frequently there is an inner cause—namely the stagnation of the blood caused by constipation or biliousness. Almost the first symptom is the feeling of cold in the feet and increased discharge from the nose.

No one ever takes cold unless constipated, or exhausted, and having what we call mal-nutrition, which is attended with impoverished blood and exhaustion of nerve force. Tonics consisting of large portions of alcohol, iron or cod liver oil do not bring the desired changes in the blood, because they do not enter the system and are not absorbed into the blood, with the exception of the alcohol, which shrivels up the red blood corpuscles when it does come in contact with them. We recommend the botanical extract of Dr. Pierce because it contains no alcohol, and offers a reasonable and scientific method of treating the blood, by improving the nutritive functions of the patient. The "Golden Medical Discovery" accomplishes this, by first restoring the debilitated digestive organs, so that food, the natural tissue builder, will be digested and assimilated.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

and hang there, out of the way, yet conveniently near.

A word about your sponge. Those porous rubber sponges are generally conceded to be more hygienic than the old-fashioned sea sponges, which are very hard to keep sweet.

Nickel furnishings tarnish, though not in as ugly a way as almost any other metal does. They should be gone over carefully one day in every week with a good cleaning and polishing powder.

In the basins and tub should be dropped a little of some good disinfectant about once a week—every day, if there is sickness in the house, or if sickness is prevalent in the neighborhood.

Soap cups and tooth brush hangers or holders, drinking glasses and every utensil used in the room should be carefully washed out every day, and finished off with another wester.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

DR. FENNER'S GOLDEN RELIEF

any pain, inside or out, in 2 to 5 minutes.

Something on His Works.

Helen Sherman Griffith, in January Lippincott's, writes:

A certain old darkey preacher, who "abarded round" among his parishioners, awoke one Sunday morning feeling far from well. He made one or two efforts to rise, but his head swam and ached and he felt "the misery" in every bone.

"Br'er Johnson, Br'er Johnson," he called to the worthy Deacon with whom he was then domiciled. "Br'er Johnson, I 'clar to goodness I jes' cawn't preach dis heah mo'atin', no-how. I's sick, dat's w'at I's. You-all jes' go up to de meetin'-house an' tack up a notice to say dat dar won't be no preachin' dis mo'nin'."

"Aw, Elder Dusenberry, you had'n't oughter g'ib in to de ills ob de flesh lak dat," said Deacon Johnson reprovingly. "You mak' a effort to rise, mah frien. Shame de debbil an' his pains 'll leab yo'." T'ink what a disappoint'ment you's g'ine to g'ib all dem niggahs—lettin' 'em get all fixed up fer meetin' in deir bes' clothes, an' den fin' dere ain't gwine to be none."

So spake Br'er Johnson, with much more to like purpose. Thus admonished, the preacher rose and, with many groans and lamentations, dressed. A hearty breakfast and a turn in the fresh air gave him the strength of mind and body to face his congregation, and as the services proceeded he warmed to his work, delivering an even more fervid discourse than usual.

When he arrived at home after meeting Br'er Johnson greeted him anxiously.

"Well, Elder Dusenberry, how you feel?" he asked solicitously.

"Oh, I feel just-rate, Br'er Johnson. Spry as a sparrow, I is. An' I wants to thank you, Br'er Johnson, for a stirrin' me up dis mawnin' and keepin' me in de pal of duty."

"Oh, dat's all right, Br'er Dusenberry, dat's all right. I knowed you'd be all right as soon as you got dat sermon out ob your system!"

Time for Rejoicing.

All Russia was rejoicing. The Czar was pacing up and down his palatial library, his face wreathed in smiles, and a pleasing and satisfied look in his bright blue eyes. The Czarina was the picture of happiness itself, as she lounged between the old-gold tapestries in her boudoir, a flush of ecstasy standing out on the cheeks that were usually so pale.

Outside the colossal palace the Czar's subjects were humming merry anthems of praise. The kibitkas that hurried to and fro held only cheerful occupants who had tidings of gladness for everyone whom they encountered. Kiosks were beautifully decorated.

The good news had spread from the borders of Hungary to the Black Sea. The peasants forgot their hard struggles for the right to exist, and were filled with gratification at the message which had gone forth from the Palace. Patriarch and the nobility were raising glasses of kumiss and toasting their grand rulers. All

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

He Took it Back.

In a certain town in Western Massachusetts two of the most prominent citizens are a Methodist brother and a Presbyterian brother. These are neighbors, and for the most part, dwell on good terms, except when they try to effect an exchange of horses or to talk religion.

On one occasion the two had traded horses and although the outcome ranked in the breast of the Methodist, they had met and started a discussion on the subject to predestination. As usual, an altercation ensued, when the Methodist lost control of himself. With mixed emotions concerning horse trades and John Calvin in his mind, he suddenly exclaimed:

"You're a robber, a liar and a Presbyterian."

This proved too much for the Presbyterian and a fight began, in which the Presbyterian got the best of it. As he sat upon his prostrate opponent, bumping his head against the ground he said:

"Take it back, take it back, or I'll bump your foolish head off!"

"I'll take it back," gasped the vanquished Methodist, "on the first two counts; you're not a robber nor a liar but you're a blamed old Presbyterian if I die for it!"

MRS. CHADWICK has been characterized as a hypnotist and those duped by her artful hand are denominated avaricious greeds. That the woman has played some very clever tricks on bank cashiers there is no question. That the bank officials expected a personal bonus out of the excessive discounts charged against Mrs. Chadwick there is little doubt and it is for this reason that they are not in position to ask or receive the consideration of the public any more than Mrs. Chadwick is. A correspondent to the New York Times sizes up the situation in the following seemingly judicious way: If I understood the case correctly I fail to see upon what ground these "vicious" are entitled to sympathy. With one accord they seem to have acted upon the supposition that they were dealing with a woman at once so rich and so reckless that for the sake of obtaining the temporary use of money for her needs she could be induced to agree to pay immense bonuses. These trusted and respected bank officials did not hesitate to give her the funds of their banks on most flimsy security, with the expectation that when the loan was repaid the bonus was to come to them personally—not to the institution which they represented.

The following brief but appropriate and expressive little declaration of appreciation was delivered by a pupil of Mr. A. V. Leach's on behalf of the school at its adjournment for the holidays when Mr. Leach received a nice present at the hands of his pupils:

Dear Teacher, again the sweet old story, old and yet ever new will be repeated at the glad time of Xmas time, so close at hand, and if received in the spirit proper to the holy occasion will bring to all a sweet consolation.

Kind Teacher, I wish to express the sentiments of the whole school when I say that we recognize your matchless qualifications mental, moral and physical as teacher and heartily appreciate your patience and forbearance. Out of the fullness of our hearts we have decided to express more fully and more gracefully our desire and hope that you will remember us.

CHARLES C. BEARD.

Charles C. Beard, the nominee for representative, was born at West Point, Hardin County Ky., on January 22nd, 1872. In his infancy his parents moved to Brandenburg, Ky. Here he attended the public schools and received a common school education, but at the age of fifteen, his father, Perry C. Beard, died, leaving a widow and several small children, and it became necessary for him to abandon his studies and seek employment, as the support of the family devolved upon him at his father's death. He served an apprenticeship at the saddlery and harness trade under J. S. Ditto, at Brandenburg, and after mastering the trade went to Louisville and became a foreman in the establishment of Habison & Gathright, with whom he remained for sometime. Afterwards he engaged in the Mercantile business at Huston, Ky., and in 1896 he came to Fordville and engaged in the the saddlery and implement business with John T. Smith, Jr. He soon became active in county politics, served one term in the town council and was city clerk, of Fordville, for one term. In 1898 he married Miss Abbie Smith, which gave him prominent family connection in Ohio county, she being a daughter of John T. Smith, Jr., President of the Fordville Barking Co., and a grand-daughter of John T. Smith Sr., and Mr. Harvey Ford, heads of pioneer families of Ohio county, and a niece of Dr. E. W. Ford, of Hartford. He has two interesting children and a cozy little home in Fordville. He was branded a good legislative timber by his friends early in the campaign won his race for the nomination without an effort, will be as easily elected and will serve his constituents faithfully. Mr. Beard is a Baptist and Royal Arch Mason.

W. B. TAYLOR.

W. B. Taylor, who was nominated for the office of County Judge without an opponent, was born and reared in what is known as the Taylortown neighborhood near Rochester in the Southern part of the county. He spent his boyhood days with his father on the farm and attended the neighborhood school during that time and at an early age had qualified himself for teaching. He taught very successfully in the public schools of the county for several years and during that period instructed several boys and young men who now fill the most important stations in life. During his experience as a teacher he was conceded to be one of the very best the county afforded. He finally abandoned his school work and turned his entire attention to farming and is now one of the most substantial and progressive farmers in the county. Mr. Taylor is eminently qualified to fill the position to which he will be elected next November, and his elevation to the position of County Judge will be hailed with approbation by a host of the county's best Democrats who will lend their aid in electing him, as well as all Republicans who will vote for him with out a dissenting vote.

Jerome Allen, the nominee of the Republican party for the office of Coroner, who received his nomination without opposition is a son of T. L. Allen and was born and reared in the Washington neighborhood, North of Hartford. He is fifty-five years old and a farmer. In 1897 he was nominated and elected Constable of the Hartford Magisterial district which position he filled with credit for the term of four years. He will receive the support of his party besides the support of some of his Democratic friends. When elected Mr. Allen will make an obliging and painstaking official.

CARSON & CO.

W. S. TINSLEY.

W. S. Tinsley, the Republican candidate for County Court Clerk, is a young man who never before asked the people to honor him. He is the son of a veteran of the Civil War, and was born on a farm near Beda, and resided there until a short time ago, when he gave up farming and came to Hartford in order to engage in business and to secure better advantage for the education of his children.

He married a daughter of Esq. W. P. Bennett, and is related to many of the best families of the county.

Mr. Tinsley has always been a consistent Republican, but is not a partisan, and his friends are not hindered by party lines.

He is closely and prominently identified with the fraternal life of Hartford being a Knight Templar Mason, S. of P. &c.

Perhaps no candidate on the ticket has more friends than W. S. Tinsley, yet certainly none has fewer enemies. Being essentially a fair and honorable man, he has so conducted himself that he holds the esteemed and personal friendship of the most partisan Democrats, while his nomination in a contest with two of the most popular Republicans of the county proves his strength in his own party.

Those who know Wilburn Tinsley best are most confident of his election and all who know him feel sure that in his election the people would secure an honest, capable and obliging Clerk.

E. M. WOODWARD.

Ernest M. Woodward, nominee for County Attorney, was born November 18th, 1878, about four and one-half miles north of Hartford. He worked on the farm with his father and attended the public schools, during his boyhood and later attended Beaver Dam Seminary and Hartford College, where he fitted himself for teaching, and at the age of eighteen he began teaching in the public schools. He spent his vacations in studying law and at the March term of the Ohio Circuit Court in 1898 was granted license to practice that profession. He began actively the practice of law in 1900 locating at Hartford, taking the views of most lawyers that the county seat is the most available and suitable location for a legal practitioner. So brilliant and eminently successful were his initial services in his chosen profession that he was enabled to form a partnership with Hon. M. L. Heaven, an old and experienced lawyer, in less than one year after he located at Hartford.

In 1902 Mr. Woodward was united in marriage to Miss Corrie Leach and they lived happily together until death called her away the next year. Ernest, as most people know him, numbers his friends by his acquaintances, for to know him is assurance that he is your friend and you his.

The fact that he was nominated for the responsible position of County Attorney of a great county like Ohio by the dominant party without opposition speaks eloquently of his popularity and in unmistakable terms regarding his standing with his party and the people generally. If elected, and there is no question but that he will be, Mr. Woodward will save the people in a kind, dutiful and honorable way.

Mr. Willis Hefflin took sick Tuesday and is confined to his room at the Commercial hotel. His physician, Dr. A. F. Stanley, hopes that Mr. Hefflin will be able to return home tomorrow.

In 1899 Mr. Martin engaged in general merchandising at Cromwell, and continued the business until about a year and a half ago, when he sold his property there and moved to Hartford to educate his children.

Mr. Martin is a whole-soul fellow, and is noted for his successful management of all his undertakings. As a farmer, he has been eminently successful; as a merchant, among the very best, and as deputy Sheriff, his kindly disposed manners and steady business methods made for him a commendable record.

His election next November means that the people will be served by a kind and painstaking official. He is a Baptist, Mason, K. of P. and Ted Man.

OSCAR MIDKIFF.

Oscar Midkiff, the nominee for Jailor, was born and reared on a farm near Olaton. He is a young man, the son of W. P. Midkiff and the grand-son of T. W. Wedding. In boyhood he assisted his father with affairs of the farm and attended the public schools and in early manhood married a daughter of Mr. Coleman Daniel. He is an industrious and enterprising farmer.

In 1896 Mr. Midkiff made the race for the nomination for Jailor against the present incumbent, Mr. Thomas H. Black, and came nearer winning the prize than any other of the unsuccessful aspirants and his graceful submission to the will of a majority of his fellow Republicans had much to do with his success in the recent race. Mr. Midkiff is an honest, upright and courageous citizen, and is a true type of genuine manhood.

His popularity in his native community will add strength to the ticket and his election will bring to the office of Jailor a diligent faithful and accommodating official.

JAMES M. DEWEESE.

James M. DeWeese, the nominee of the Republican party for Superintendent of Schools, is a young man. He was born near Trisler, in Ohio county in 1876, and has been connected with the schools of this county since his earliest advent as a pupil, and has served in the capacity of teacher, county examiner, and Superintendent.

His education in the common schools was not neglected, and was supplemented by years of study at Lebanon Ohio, and Valparaiso, Ind. From the latter college he graduated in 1900, and the same year was nominated by his party for Superintendent of Common Schools.

His opponent, Prof. L. W. Godsey, was a popular teacher, and a skilled politician, but in the final election Godsey was beaten by a decisive vote.

As Superintendent Mr. DeWeese has been ever accommodating and courteous, alike mindful of his official duties and of the individual kindness which have endeared him to the teachers and officers of the common schools.

So popular is his administration that no teacher would announce against him, and he received the unanimous vote of his party's convention.

During his administration the schools of the county have sustained a continued improvement. Ohio county had more young men and women who completed the common school course last year than any county in the State. The large audience that witnessed the graduation exercises this summer will not soon forget the number or appearance of the graduates.

To the independent vote, and the school-man the candidacy of Mr. DeWeese and his request for an endorsement by a re-election will appeal strongly, and we prophecy the verdict next November will be, "well done, thou good and faithful servant."

NATHANIEL MOXLEY.

Nathaniel Moxley, who without opposition was nominated by the Republican party as its candidate for Surveyor was born in the Eastern part of Kentucky in 1839 while his parents were on their way from Virginia to Ohio county. He is of Irish parentage and belongs to a family of school teachers himself having taught thirty-four years in the public schools. He has been a resident of Ohio county all his life and has been a practical Surveyor for twenty-five years. In 1897 he was nominated by the Republican party for the same office to which he aspires at present and won over his Democratic opponent by a decisive vote. He filled the position in a kind, obliging and faithful manner and will bring the same good spirit and efficient to the office if elected next November. He is without personal enemies and will receive many Democratic votes in the community in which he lives.

Sam W. Leach, the nominee for assessor, was born and reared in Ohio county near Cromwell. He is now fifty three years old. He is a farmer, and like many others of the best farmers and most substantial citizens of the county, lives in the community in which he was born. He has never held an elective office except constable, to which position he was elected about eighteen years ago, defeating Buck Porter, his Democratic opponent.

When Mr. H. Frank Lowe was elected Assessor in 1901, he appointed Mr. Leach his deputy in the Cromwell country, and he has reappointed him annually since then, which position he now holds.

Mr. Leach is a kind and obliging gentleman, and is quite popular in his native community and other sections where he is known, and his election will insure a sober, attentive business-like administration. Mr. Leach is a Baptist and a Mason.

Bird Lost in the Air.
Boys are frequently lost in the woods, and it is a singular fact that birds are sometimes lost in the air. This might seem strange to almost anyone; but the average man is a superficial observer of little things.

In the fair North, and particularly along the ocean coasts, birds are frequently storm driven and lose their bearings, so that many of them are cast at sea. They keep floating in the air aimlessly, striving to live, until exhaustion compels them to drop into the angry waves which engulf them.

There is a well-authenticated case on record of an ocean liner bringing into New York on a winter's day a large white owl which had dropped to one of the forward spars in an exhausted condition more than eight hundred miles off the coast of Newfoundland. It was nearly dead from cold and hunger, and almost too weak to eat anything. It had become much emaciated and trembled in its distress when it tried to swallow the first morsel of meat which was placed within its beak. The captain and sailors were all interested in it, and under their nourishing care it slowly recovered, and became entirely well and healthy a strong. It willingly remained with the ship afterward.

It was evidently a land bird which had been blown off from the coast of Newfoundland by strong west winds, had become lost, merely drifted before the gales, kept out of the water, almost starved to death, and made its last intelligent effort to reach the ship and there fell in exhaustion and collapse.

Old birds narrate many other instances of finding birds that have been lost in the air.

Bird Lost in the Air.
Boys are frequently lost in the woods, and it is a singular fact that birds are sometimes lost in the air. This might seem strange to almost anyone; but the average man is a superficial observer of little things.

In the fair North, and particularly along the ocean coasts, birds are frequently storm driven and lose their bearings, so that many of them are cast at sea. They keep floating in the air aimlessly, striving to live, until exhaustion compels them to drop into the angry waves which engulf them.

There is a well-authenticated case on record of an ocean liner bringing into New York on a winter's day a large white owl which had dropped to one of the forward spars in an exhausted condition more than eight hundred miles off the coast of Newfoundland. It was nearly dead from cold and hunger, and almost too weak to eat anything. It had become much emaciated and trembled in its distress when it tried to swallow the first morsel of meat which was placed within its beak. The captain and sailors were all interested in it, and under their nourishing care it slowly recovered, and became entirely well and healthy a strong. It willingly remained with the ship afterward.

Head About to Burst From Severe Bilious Attack.
"I had a severe bilious attack and felt like my head was about to burst when I got hold of a true sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I took a dose of them after supper and the next day felt like a new man and have been feeling happy ever since," says Mr. J. W. Smith, of Joliet, Texas. It was evidently a land bird which had been blown off from the coast of Newfoundland by strong west winds, had become lost, merely drifted before the gales, kept out of the water, almost starved to death, and made its last intelligent effort to reach the ship and there fell in exhaustion and collapse.

Old birds narrate many other instances of finding birds that have been lost in the air.

Country vs. City Life.

[Western Farmer]

There is a general impression among people who do not know, that country life is an unvarying round of dull monotony.

That is where the city dweller is off his trolley.

There may have been a time when life in the country was tolerably monotonous, though our experience has been that there is generally something doing in the country and mighty little opportunity to get real lonesome.

Here is the record of the experience of a city man who decided to buy a farm and move out into the country where he could commune with nature and get away from the maddening crowd. He married and moved with his bride immediately to their country residence.

The first evening a crowd of fifty neighbors gathered to charivari the newly married couple. It was a sort of cross between an hour in the boiler factory and an active siege of a fortress. A dozen men kept up a continuous fire with shotguns, four others beat a big circle saw with sledge hammers, six others had managed to supply themselves with gongs and the balance were fixed with kettles and tin pans. The bride's hearing was badly impaired for a month after the occurrence, and the groom had one ear drum split by the noise.

The next day the man from the city wandered out in his fields and saw a cone hanging on a tree. He started to examine it.

The first hornet that got into action hit him right under the eye and the second bit him right on the upper lip. It was four days before he could see out of that optic and his lip was swelled until he had to stand on his tiptoes to look over it.

During the course of his first month's experience the man from the city was kicked twice by a mule, three times by a cow; chased up a tree once by a dog and run out of a field by a vicious bull. A friendly calf chewed the tail off his coat and a William goat ate up his best pair of pants which had been hung out on the fence to air.

Within the first three months of his sojourn in the quiet country a fractious team of horses had ran away with him four times. Twice he had been plucked in a blackberry thicket and come out worse scratched up than a Thomas cat after a hard battle with a successful rival. Once he came out with a broken collar bone and once with a fractured leg. His wife, in hunting for greens in the woodlot, came in contact with poison ivy. As a result her face looked like a painted puff ball for a week after.

Within the first six months he had to get up twice at night to fight prairie fires, plowed through two bumble bee nests and disturbed the domestic arrangement of a family of yellow jackets.

Others may talk about the quiet and monotony of country life, but this man knows by actual experience that for strenuousness the city isn't in it with the country.

RECTOR OF ST. LUKE'S,

Ashburnham, Ontario, Testifies to the Good Qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Ashburnham, Ont., April 18, 1903
—I think it is only right that I should tell you what a wonderful effect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has produced. The day before Easter I was so distressed with a cold and cough that I did not think to be able to take any duties the next day, as my voice was almost choked by the cough. The same day I received an order from you for a bottle of your Cough Remedy. I at once procured a sample bottle, and took about three doses of the medicine. To my great relief the cough and cold had completely disappeared and I was able to preach three times on Easter Day. I know that this rapid and effective cure was due to your Cough Remedy. I make this testimonial without solicitation, being thankful to have found such a God-sent remedy. Respectfully yours, E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., Rector of St. Luke's Church.

A CUT OR TORN ARTERY.

How to Stop Dangerous Bleeding in Cases of Accident.

It often happens in cases of accident that the danger to life is greatly increased by, if not solely dependent upon, the loss of blood, the injury itself being a comparatively trivial affair. Whether light or serious, the wound can wait, for the arrival of the physician, but the bleeding waits for nothing. It must be arrested speedily, and if it is not stopped by some one on the spot or if it does not cease spontaneously the coming of the physician may be useless, for the wounds of a dead man need no binding.

In classes of instruction in first aid to the wounded this point is always insisted upon, and rightly, but unfortunately how bleeding from a cut or torn artery can be quickly and certainly arrested is not always clearly enough explained. The pupils study diagrams depicting the course and direction of the large arteries, and round black or red disks are placed at the points where pressure can be effectively applied to shut off the flow of blood from the parts lower down on the limb. The application of a tourniquet is taught, and sometimes even the mode of tying an artery (which is surgeon's work and not to be attempted by any member of a first aid class) is elaborately explained. But sometimes the lecturer forgets to say that the most copious bleeding can always be arrested temporarily and often permanently by simple pressure made directly on the bleeding point. If you can put your finger (literally) on the source of the hemorrhage and keep it there your wounded companion will not bleed to death, at least not while under your care.

One must make sure in doing this that the finger is really making pressure on the bleeding point, which may be deep down at the bottom of the wound, but the continuance of the bleeding will soon prove that the finger or the cloth pad or the rounded stick or whatever is used to make pressure with is not pressing on the right spot. Care must be taken not to soil the wound with dirty fingers or a dirty rag. If time and opportunity permit the finger should first be washed or at least wiped with a clean cloth, and if a cloth pad is used the outer layers at least must be free from visible dirt.

In almost any company some one may be found who has a clean handkerchief in the pocket. One which has not been unfolded is best, for this can then be folded inside out and made up into a clean pad of any desired shape. — Youth's Companion.

Roman Epicures.

A certain Roman epicure once gave a little dinner to nine friends. It cost $10,000. Oysters brought by footmen from Britain were consumed in quantities. The Roman gastronomy favored such delicacies as peacock, guinea hen, nightingale, thrushes, perhaps a whole boar stuffed with the flesh of other animals. But fish was the especial dainty. Vitellius, we are told, had his fish weighed alive before him at the table. Bets were made on the duration of its expiring gasps. His brother once served him a dinner at which 2,000 of the choicest fish were used. He often dined out, and none of the meals ever cost his host less than $15,000. Apicius, after wasting nearly $3,000,000 in feasting, discovered to his dismay that he had but a little over $400,000 left. This being too little for a gentleman to exist on, he calmly killed himself.

No Courting on Sundays.

The Bethel Primitive Methodist chapel in Burnley, England, recently held its anniversary. On that occasion a souvenir handbook, which contained copies of all records, was issued. A minute passed in 1894 reads: "That we do not allow young men and women of our society to court with each other on Sunday. Neither do we allow our single men and women to walk arm in arm in the streets together at any time, nor do we allow them to stand in the streets together chatting." Another resolution forbade girl choiristers wearing bows in their bouquets.

Willing to Help.

The London Chronicle tells of a warm hearted omnibus driver. A woman who occupied a seat near the driver saw a man friend inside an omnibus proceeding just ahead. Signs and telepathic communications alike failed to attract the attention of the unconscious passenger, though of course everybody else on both omnibuses was wreathed in interested smiles. Then the driver's heart was melted. Leaning forward, he prodded the conductor of the foremost bus with his whip. "Tell the gentleman to smile at the lady," he said.
